UK-based copy-editor and proofreader for fiction

I'm Hannah McCall, and I have five years' editorial experience, working with publishers and independent authors. I've completed more than 120 projects, approximately half of which were novels, and I have a steady group of clients – in the last financial year around 90% of my work was commissioned by publishers and individuals I've worked with before.

Training and membership

I am highly trained, my skills have been rigorously assessed – my primary training was undertaken with the Publishing Training Centre (PTC) – and I have proven my competence to the Society for Editors and Proofreaders (SfEP). These are the courses I have completed:

- Introduction to Fiction Editing (SfEP), 2019
- Basic Editing by Distance Learning (PTC), 2018
- Basic Proofreading: Digital Skills (PTC), 2017
- Mentoring scheme (SfEP), 2016
- P2: Proofreading Progress (SfEP), 2015
- Grammar at Work (PTC), 2015
- Basic Proofreading by Distance Learning (PTC), 2015

I am an Advanced Professional Member of the Chartered Institute of Editing and Proofreading (CIEP), and I have passed the Basic Editorial Test (SfEP). In addition, I serve as the coordinator for the West Surrey and North Hampshire local CIEP group.

Subject specialisms and interests

I specialise in editing fiction. The work I do for publishing houses tends to focus on general commercial fiction, but I have a particular interest in fantasy, speculative and science fiction (adult and young adult), and enjoy working on thrillers and murder-mysteries.

My recent projects include children's fantasy fiction set in medieval Scotland, a World War II spy thriller and a multi-genre short-story collection.

My work ethic

My priority is to provide an excellent service: I'm friendly and responsive; my work is thorough and accurate; I provide full documentation; I always follow the brief; I never miss a deadline.

In my clients' words...

- "Insightful and sympathetic copy-editing that improved the storytelling." Ian Hudson, author of The Chocolate Thieves
- "Lovely and professional edit. Very pleased with the quality of work." Katherine Ward, editorial assistant (Troubador Publishing Ltd)
- "Hannah McCall carried out an excellent critique of my manuscript, and completed the task exactly on schedule. She was very thorough with her work and spotted all the flaws, but offered usable solutions, advice and encouragement. I was very impressed, and grateful for her efforts." Peter Hingston, author
